

---

[Authors]

Carlo Baccetti teaches Politics, Policies, Governance and Local Politics at the University of Florence. He has taught at the University of Catania, at the University of Barcelona (Autònoma) and at the ICPS in Barcelona. He has written articles and books about political parties, political culture, local and regional politics and elections. Recent books: I postdemocristiani (2007); Il popolo in Comune. Politica e amministrazione a Empoli dal 1946 al 1980 (2011); Uno contro tutti. La sfida del Movimento 5 Stelle (2013); Der aufhaltsame Abstieg der Partei Italia dei Valori (2008-2013) (2014). He is editor in chief of the semiannual review Quaderni dell'Osservatorio elettorale.

Laura Bazzicalupo is full Professor of Political Philosophy at the University of Salerno. She has worked on the cross between aesthetics and politics ; most recently she has been involved in biopolitics , governmentality, and neoliberal transformations of democracy. She collaborates with the magazine «Filosofia politica». Her most recent monographs are Il governo delle vite (2006); Superbia (2008), Biopolitica, una mappa concettuale (2010); Eroi della libertà (2011); Politica. Rappresentazioni e tecniche di governo (2013); Dispositivi e soggettivazioni (2014).

Lorenzo Bernini is a researcher in political philosophy at the University of Verona, and a science supervisor at the PoliTeSse research center - Politiche e teorie della sessualità (Politics and theories of sexuality). He is a member of scientific committee of «AG About Gender» and is on the editorial staff of «Filosofia politica». His interests range from modern political philosophy to theories of radical democracy, from feminism to gender studies and queer theories. His publications include: Le pecore e il pastore: Critica, politica, etica nel pensiero di Michel Foucault (2008); Apocalissi queer: Elementi di teoria antisociale (2013).

Paola Bordandini is associate professor of Political Science at the Department of Political Science, University of Bologna, where she teaches Methodology of political science and Methodology of social science. She has written Cultura politica e piccola impresa nell'Italia plurale (2006); Delegati di partito. Sdi e Nuovo Psi (2011), with A. Di Virgilio; La spada di Vendola. Una risorsa o un problema per il centrosinistra? (2012). Her publications also include journal articles and essay on political parties, trust and social capital.

Lorenzo Bruni currently attends a PhD program in Policy theory and research at the Department of Political Science of the University of Perugia. His PhD thesis concerns theoretical and empirical research on shame as a social emotion. He is a member of RILES-Ricerche sul Legame Sociale and collaborates with the Centro Studi Storico-Filosofici di Marsciano. His most recent publications are: the article Riconoscimento e capitalismo. Tra conflitto di classe e ideologia dell'autorealizzazione, in "Quaderni di Teoria Sociale" n. 14/2014; and the book chapters: - Il disagio giovanile come sofferenza sociale, in A. Santambrogio, Giovani a Perugia. Vissuti urbani e forme del tempo (2014, ed.); - Intersoggettività, identità, conflitto. Una teoria normativa della società, in I. Pozzoni, Schegge di filosofia moderna XII (2014, ed.).

Mario Caciagli is professor emeritus at the University of Florence. He was full professor of Comparative Politics at the Faculty of Political Sciences from 1987 until 2010. Prior to that he was a professor in the Faculty of Political Sciences of the University of Catania (1973-1984) and in the Faculty of Political Sciences of the University of Padua (1971-73 and 1984-1987). He has been a visiting professor in Barcelona and Santiago de Compostela, and also in Heidelberg, Bonn, Innsbruck and IEP of Paris. Since 1981 he has been the Director of the Quaderni dell'Osservatorio elettorale, a semiannual review on electoral studies.

Roberto Cartocci is full Professor of Political Science at the Università di Bologna since 1999, and currently teaches Methodology of political science and Theory of political development. His main research interests can be summarized as: political culture, social capital, quality of Democracy, electoral trends, methods for social science, political development, comparative politics. His publications include: Le Mappe del Tesoro (2007); Geografia dell'Italia Cattolica (2011).

Dimitri D'Andrea teaches Political Philosophy at the University of Florence. He has written on the Modernity Theory and on the transformation of categories of modern politics, such as sovereignty, the nation-State, globalization, conflict, political identity, and environmental risks. Among his recent publications: L'incubo degli ultimi uomini. Etica e politica in Max Weber (2005); Global Warming and European Political Identity, in F. Cerutti, S. Lucarelli, The Search for a European Identity. Values, policies and legitimacy of the European Union (2008, eds.); with R. Badii, Shoah, modernità e male politico (2014, eds).

Antonio Floridia is public officer of the Regione Toscana, and supervisor of the Electoral Observatory as well as of the "Policies for participation" Sector. Among his recent publications, the volume La democrazia deliberativa: teorie, processi e sistemi (2012).

Paolo Giovannini, former Dean of the Faculty of Political Science "Cesare Alfieri" at the University of Florence, and former professor of Sociology. Visiting professor at Warwick, Barcelona, and other European universities. Associated with several research centres, he has founded a Research Laboratory on Social Changes (CAMBIO): currently, he is Editor-in-chief of the online journal of the same name.

Daniel Innerarity is professor of Political Philosophy and "Ikerbasque" researcher at the University of Basque Country. He is also the Director of the Instituto de Gobernanza Democrática (www.globernance.org), a former Robert Schuman Visiting Professor in the European University Institute of Florence, Fellow of the Alexander von Humboldt Foundation at the University of Munich and visiting professor at the University of Paris 1-Sorbonne. His recent publications (in English) include: Rethinking the Future of Politics (2010); The future and its Enemies (2012); with Javier Solana, Humanity at Risk. The Need for Global Governance (2012, eds); The Democracy of Knowledge (2013); A World of Everybody and None (2014).

Marc Lazar, Dean of the Graduate School of Paris Institut d'études politiques from 2000 to 2007, he is currently professor of Political History and Sociology, Director of the Center of History and President of the Advisory Council in the same Institute. Director of the GREPIC (Group of Pluridisciplinary Studies on Contemporary Italy) at the CERI (Centre d'études et de recherches Internationales, CNRS-Sciences po), he is also President of the School of Government at Luiss University "Guido Carli" in Rome. His research interests include: the Left in Europe; comparative politics in France and Italy; relations between history and political science. Columnist for the Italian newspaper La Repubblica.

Vanessa Lio has a degree in Communication Sciences (Universidad de Buenos Aires) and a Masters degree in Public and Political Communication (Università di Pisa). She is a fellow of the Argentine Consejo Nacional de Investigaciones Científicas y Técnicas (CONICET) and researcher at the Instituto de Investigaciones en Humanidades y Ciencias Sociales (IDIHCS, Universidad Nacional de La Plata). She is currently attending a PhD in Social Sciences at the Universidad de Buenos Aires.

Simona Miceli has a Masters Degree in Political Sciences from the University of Calabria. She graduated with a thesis on the aspirations and identity of second-generation immigrants. She will soon begin a PhD program in "International Studies" at the University "L'Orientale" of Naples. In November, she took part in a workshop at the International Metropolis Conference on Migration, Energy for the Planet, Feeding Cultures, where she presented a paper entitled Second-Generation Immigrants' Capacity to Aspire: Incentives and Obstacles.

Angela Perulli is Associate Professor of Sociology at the Università degli Studi di Firenze, where she teaches Sociology and the Sociology of everyday life. Director of the Laboratory Cambio and member of the Figurational Research Network, her main research topics are: social processes, time patterns, social inequalities, process sociology, social theory. Co-editor of Cambio. Rivista sulle trasformazioni sociali, she collaborates with several scientific journals, such as «Stato e Mercato», «Cuadernos de Relaciones Laborales» and Human Figurations. In 2013 she received a N.Elias Stipendium from the Deutsches Literaturarchiv (Marbach a.N.).

---

Franco Rositi Former professor of Urban sociology, Methodology of social sciences, and Sociology at the Universities of Milan, Bari, Turin and Pavia. Founder and editor of the Methodology of human sciences series, directed by Alberto Marradi. Retired in November 2010, he was appointed Professor Emeritus of Sociology, University of Pavia. Until recently, he coordinated a research project of national interest (PRIN) on “The Quality of Public Argumentation” involving various departments of the Universities of Pavia, Milan, and Bologna. Among his most recent publications: Sulle virtù pubbliche. Cultura comune, ceti dirigenti, democrazia (2001); La ragione politica (2013); I valori e le regole. I termini della teoria sociologica (2014).

Annalisa Tonarelli, PhD, is assistant professor of Sociology of Labor and Industrial Relations at the School of Political Sciences “Cesare Alfieri”, Università degli Studi di Firenze. She coordinates the Laboratory of Labor Sciences Laboris, at PIN Polo Universitario Città di Prato, and she is also a member of CAMBIO, the research unit on social changes of the Department of Political and Social Sciences (DPS), and member of LUAM, Laboratory on conflict mediation and resolution, Department of Law. She teaches Social problems (post-graduate course). Her main research interests concern: the labor market; employment and new forms of labor and professions; work, family and gender; working class conditions and industrial decline; poverty and social inclusion.

